

Information Request Stakeholder-5:

Stakeholder-5 Are there any federal law implications that should be considered concerning sharing costs of EPS upgrades with interconnecting customers over an extended period of time and in particular after the EPS upgrade has been constructed?

Response:

At present, the Attorney General’s Office (“AGO”) has no knowledge of such implications. Given the rapidly evolving nature of the distributed energy resource industry and federal, state, and local statutory and regulatory frameworks, the AGO will supplement this answer when appropriate.
